

Special Seminar in Mongolia

University of Tsukuba

AUGUST
14, 2014
9:00-12:00

Center on Conservation of Freshwater Reserves and Nature of Mongolia
Khan-Uul district, Zalsan 9, Ulaanbaatar, Mongolia

The Future of the Environment, Sciences and Policies

- 9:00 Opening remarks (Professor Maki Tsujimura)
- 9:15 Representative master's research results on Mongolia
 1. Land use in the Ger district
 2. Heavy metal treatment in urban rivers
- 10:00 Health break
- 10:15 Ms. Tseveenkhanda Yadmaa (JDS graduate) on environmental education & tourism
- 10:35 Introduction of research groups at the University of Tsukuba
- 11:10 Guest speaker (TBA)
- 11:30 Closing remarks

OUTLINE: This seminar by the University of Tsukuba, one of Japan's leading research institutions, intends to share its latest researches on the future of environmental sciences and policies with the Mongolia's government agencies and the public. It also seeks to establish a better collaborative network between the University and stakeholders in Mongolia to improve Mongolia's social and environmental performance.

For more information and inquiry: jds_office@envr.tsukuba.ac.jp

M.A. in Environmental Sciences & Ph.D. in Sustainable Environmental Studies, University of Tsukuba

