

Special Seminar in Vietnam

University of Tsukuba

AUGUST
11, 2014
9:00-12:30

Vietnam - Japan Human Resources Cooperation Center Hanoi
No 91 Chua Lang Str, Dong Da Dist, Ha Noi, Viet Nam

The Future of the Environment, Sciences and Policies

- 9:00 Opening remarks (Professor Maki Tsujimura)
- 9:15 Representative master's research results on Vietnam
 1. Hydrology and sea level rise
 2. Forest management and local people on the coast
 3. Urban planning for traditional areas
- 10:15 Health break
- 10:30 Mr. Nguyen Thuan (MONRE) on pollution control
- 10:50 Introduction of research groups at the University of Tsukuba
- 11:50 Deputy Director General of the Vietnam Environment Administration
- 12:20 Closing remarks

OUTLINE: This seminar by the University of Tsukuba, one of Japan's leading research institutions, intends to share its latest researches on the future of environmental sciences and policies with the Vietnamese government agencies and the public. It also seeks to establish a better collaborative network between the University and stakeholders in Vietnam to improve Vietnam's environmental performance.

For more information and inquiry: ids_office@envr.tsukuba.ac.jp

M.A. in Environmental Sciences & Ph.D. in Sustainable Environmental Studies, University of Tsukuba

